SIRI's high workload continues to cause delays, especially for extensions of residence and work permits. Processing times are exceeding SIRI's service targets and usual timelines.

We regularly follow up on pending cases through SIRI's telephone hotline, which is also affected by the high workload.

EU citizens may also find it difficult to book an appointment for an EU residence document, which is needed to obtain a CPR number.

We recommend checking SIRI's booking system regularly, as cancellations often make appointments available.

Deadlines for international appointments

To ensure timely processing of appointments of international employees, we would like to remind you of the deadlines below.
Please remember to coordinate with your own HR consultant.

Start date	Request for employment no later than
1 February 2027	1 December 2026
1 March 2027	1 January 2027

Tax webinar for international researchers 2026

AU will host its annual tax webinar on 18 November together with the Danish Tax Agency, Skat. The webinar is for international researchers and PhD fellows and will cover the Danish tax system and the special tax scheme for researchers.
