

Evaluation report Autumn 2023

Middle East Studies

Study programme: Middle East Studies

Level:

MA

Study Board:

History, Classical Studies, Study of Religion, and Middle East Studies

Evaluation strategy for the education:

Preliminary, oral evaluations are conducted on the individual lecture's initiative halfway through the course. Final evaluations are carried out electronically at the end of the semester according to the Study Board's evaluation strategy.

What specific courses does this summary include:

Introduction to History and Society in the Middle East, and Mediterranean Perspectives: Migration, EU, and Democracy.

Positive examples for inspiration:

In both courses, the students express that throughout the semester, they have known what was expected from them in terms of performance. They state that the lecturers were very helpful, that interactions between them and the lecturers were very good contributing very positively to their learning, they found that all course materials were highly suitable, and they appreciate the various forms of study activities which they have encountered in the courses.

Conditions that call for further follow-up:

There was nothing in the evaluations that require follow-up and furthermore, these courses will not be taught again.

Future initiatives based on the evaluations:

None. The study program has been closed down, as such it is the last time these courses are taught.

Initiatives since the last evaluation:
